The Witch of the Wilds

THE PURPLES AND BLACKS OF MORRIGAN'S elegant ball gown are a cavalier, witchy thumb to the nose of the pastel hues favored by Orlesian fashion.

Adorned with feathers and black lace, her dress slyly layers the natural upon the ostentatious. Small silver flies cling to her forest green velvet skirt. And while keeping to the style of the Orlesian court, the flexibility of her leather corset allows her to cast a spell or two, should a bard step out of line.
